

presents a

Symposium on Gallipoli 1915

As part of the Center for Middle Eastern Studies' program of commemorating the various centenaries associated with the First World War in the Middle East – a conflict as murderous and bloody as that in western Europe – CMES will hold a one-day symposium on the Battle of Gallipoli in 1915. This event will include a panel of discussion by several American-based experts in late Ottoman History as well as two Ottoman historians from Germany and from Turkey.

Organized by: Roger Owen, A. J. Meyer Professor of Middle East History, Emeritus, and Cemal Kafadar, Vehbi Koç Professor of Turkish Studies.

Program

Chair: Cemal Kafadar

9:30-11:00 am

Mustafa Aksakal, Georgetown University

Gallipoli: An Early Assessment

11:30am-1:00pm

Ahmet Kuyaş, Université Galatasaray

Wartime Reform: Monogamy in the Ottoman Empire

1:00-2:00 Break

2:00-3:30

Tilman Luedke, Arnold Bergstraesser Institut für kulturwissenschaftliche Forschung

Gallipoli: The Campaign that Kept the Ottoman Empire in the War

4:00-5:30

Roger Owen, Harvard University

A note on Military Graveyards and Other forms of Post-Battle burial

October 9, 2015 || 9:30 am-5:30 pm

CMES, Room 102, 38 Kirkland Street

Cambridge, MA

Sponsors: Consulate General of Turkey in Boston, Harvard Department of History, Center for Middle Eastern Studies

Contact: Liz Flanagan